Morgan One Of 5
Picked To Honor
Nixon In State

The Morgan County High School marching band, which spent last week practicing at Crescendo Band Camp at Lebanon Junction, was honored by being invited to march in the downtown parade in Louisville honoring President Nixon on Tuesday when he came to Louisville to speak to the governors of Appalachian states.

All 48 members of the MCHS band and six majorettes, accompanied by their director, Linda Hopkins, were at the band camp for lessons and practice preparing for their appearance at the State Fair in August to take part in marching and field competition.

The Morgan band and majorettes was one of five bands that marched through downtown Louisville in the parade honoring President Nixon, who followed in a limousine. Other bands in the President's parade were Salyersville, Lyon County, Garrard County and the Army Band from Fort Knox.

Taking part in the President's parade was an unexpected honor for the local band and each member felt honored that they were selected.

While at Crescendo Band Camp the local band and majorettes were taught a new routine which they will perform at the State Fair competition, also between halves of home football games this year. Thomas Hays of Humboldt, Tenn. was their instructor in marching routine, and Alex McGuire of Louisiana Tech was instructor in brass and marching.

Perkins sees no need for burley cut in year 1971.

Congressman Carl Perkins, speaking at the Grayson RECC meeting last week, said he could see no need for cutting burley tobacco acreage any further in 1971.

Perkins said that in view of the 10% cut in acreage last year and taking into account that use of burley is now greater, in his judgement, now yield, there "will not be any necessity for another cut in burley for the 1971 growing season."

Perkins discussed the tobacco program at some length and said burley is still being plagued by the health scare against cigarettes, but indicated that this may be resolved sooner than it now appears.

Perkins said also that advance engineering is now being done on the Kehoe Reservoir project in Carter and Greenup counties, and that the project will be ready for construction next year.

He also stated that recreation facilities will be developed at several places on the new Cave Run Reservoir on Licking and the Grayson Reservoir on Little Sandy.

ROAD SIGNS ERECTED ON 3 ROADS LEADING TO DEEP-TEST OIL WELL

Traffic is getting heavier on the Little Fork road leading to the deep-test well being drilled at Stephens for Monitor Petroleum Corporation of New York.

And Monitor's division engineer Bieck Strickland has had road signs placed on the three roads leading to Stephens. The signs read—

"WELCOME TO STEPHENS Population 244 Happy People"

Nearly all the major oil and gas companies have their agents watching the deep-test. Also there are a lot of independent companies who have their land agents in the area. And geologists too are watching the drilling.

Strickland said Saturday drillers had penetrated to a depth of 9,505 feet. "We are still drilling, but it's hard and slow," he added. Monitor will have the well drilled to the granite, or basement rock. But the basement is deeper than Monitor's geologists had predicted. They estimated, from sismograph tests, that they would hit basement at about 8,500 feet. The drill already has penetrated deeper than the estimate by over 1,000 feet.

Nearby deep-tests hit granite at shallower depths. In Boyd a deep test hit granite at 7,600, in Carter at 5,100 and in western Elliott at 5,300 feet. Monitor's deep test is on a sharp downthrust of the Precambrian formation—thus is of great interest to all oil and gas people.

The rotary rig is drilling the Monitor well at the rear of the Stephens post office at the mouth of Ison Creek on Little Fork in eastern Elliott. Drillers hope to hit the basement next week.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eula Mae Tolson; three sons, Dorsey C. Tolson Jr., Middletown, Ohio, and James Robert and Jackie Dale Tolson, Campton; three daughters, Mrs. Kathleen Woodward, Middletown, Ohio; Mrs. China Spencer, Pine Ridge, and Mrs. Wanda Cunningham, Stanton, and six grandchildren.

BARBER ON TV'S 'SPORTS AFIELD'

Harold Barber of West Liberty, biologist for the State Fish and Wildlife Department, appeared last weekend on "Kentucky Afield", a half-hour television program originating in Louisville. He predicted "good squirrel hunting in Kentucky this year."

Barber and Hope Carleton, public relations representative of the Fish and Wildlife Department, conducted the half-hour TV show, which was seen in this area Sunday at 1 p.m. over the CBS station from Lexington.

The squirrel season opens this year on Aug. 15, and Barber said prospects look good this year—much better than last year—for a good squirrel-hunting season.

"And hunting will be good in all sections of the state, because there is ample feed for the squirrels this year, and there was good reproduction of squirrels this spring."

But the quality and quantity of habitat for squirrels is declining, particularly where there is logging operations, Barber pointed out.

Testing Begins As Deep Well Hits The Basement at 9,600 Ft.

NICKELL WELL IS SHOT TUESDAY; AWAITING TEST

"We've got an oil producer, but we'll get a test later," said Richard Drake of Joliet, Ill. after his well No. 2 on the Nickell lease near Adele was shot Tuesday.

The American Glycerine Co. used 150 quarts of nitroglycerine in shooting 70 feet of pay in the coriferous at a depth of 2,010 feet.

Tools were lost in the well several weeks ago. All conventional means of fishing them out failed, and Drake had a rotary rig moved in to drill around the lost whipstock and bit.

But when the well was shot this week the explosion released the whipstock and it blew up in the casing within about 900 feet of the top.

Testing the production must await work of removing the whipstock from the casing. This is expected to take only a little while. And Drake and associates are expecting a good producer.

The well is on Stick Branch and is near well No. 1 that has been producing oil about 24 years.

BIG COMPANIES HAVE AGENTS AT STEPHENS WELL

Drilling was halted Monday in the deep-test well being sunk for Monitor Petroleum Corporation in eastern Elliott county after the rotary bit hit a granite wash, which is near the basement rock.

Schlumberger Logging Service of Charleston was called in to make a comprehensive log of the deep-test well from top to bottom, and this will take another day, according to Bieck Strickland, division engineer for Monitor.

Strickland would not say how deep drillers went before hitting the granite wash. But it is known that they were down 9,505 feet last Saturday. Drilling was slowed by the hard formation, and total depth of the well may not be deeper than 9,600 feet, most observers think.

But this is about 1,100 feet deeper than geologists had estimated they would need to go to hit basement in that area.

Sismograph tests were incomplete for that particular area, and Monitor has consented for United Fuel to make more detailed gravity tests in the area to clear up the inaccuracy as to depth of various formations along that part of Little Fork.

The well is at Stephens at the mouth of Ison Creek on Little Fork, on the farm of Cecil Ison.

Strickland said Wednesday his company will make drill stem tests of different zones in the well, starting as soon as Schlumberger completes the logging tests. He said the drill stem tests may take as long as three days.

Drillers hit a good flow of gas below the St. Peter at about 4,600 feet. This was cased off and drilling was continued.

Strickland indicated his company expects the log and drill stem tests to show up more and bigger pay zones in the deep hole than has yet been announced.

Meanwhile, most major companies have their agents in the area, some of them geologists and one or two presidents of big firms.

Donald Silberman, president of Monitor, is at the operation. Also Ashland Oil has several of its officials there, as well as United Fuel and Walter Duncan of Illinois.

Ashland Oil's chief geologist, John Avila, is cooperating with Monitor Geologists in checking data from the logging tests.

Other events for the day will be announced later by the Homecoming chairman, James R. Perry.

FORMER MORGAN COUNTIAN CELEBRATES 88TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Imogene Brock

On June 14th of this year, family and friends met in Burbank, Oklahoma to celebrate the 88th birthday of Mrs. Cora (Davis) Allen. The day was happily spent in visiting, giving of gifts and enjoying the bountiful dinner prepared by her daughter, Mrs. Imogene Brock.

Cora Allen is a former Morgan County resident. She was born to James M. and Louisa Jane Davis, who lived near White Oak, on June 14, 1882. Her early life was spent in or near the same community. On May 4, 1904, she was married in her parents' home, to U. B. Allen, son of John Dile and Perintha Allen of Magoffin County, Kentucky.

The next year they moved to Oklahoma, Indian Territory, where her relatives, the Bob Praters had already settled. Their four children were born and raised in Oklahoma. Her son, Daniel Webster is a Baptist preacher in Colorado. Imogene works for the Welfare Department of Oklahoma, and Maxine is a school teacher in Texas where the youngest girl, Florence is a housewife.

Cora lives alone in Burbank, Oklahoma and enjoys fair health and strength. She loves visits of loved ones and friends and would especially enjoy hearing from old-time friends and relatives in Morgan County. She enjoys reading The Licking Valley Courier each week with its news of those she remembers from long ago.

A historical marker on the courthouse lawn at Sandy Hook, Elliott County seat, shows the county was named in 1869 for John M. Elliott.

PERKINS ATTACKS STRIP MINING

(The Lexington Herald)

Kentuckians concerned about strip mining in Eastern Kentucky got unexpected support the other day from Congressman Carl Perkins whose district encompasses most of the region's coal field.

In a stinging attack, Perkins said, "We're running steamshovels and bulldozers around a lot of these hills where they shouldn't be running."

He also criticized broad-form deeds which permit a coal operator to strip the surface of a property owner's land although holding rights only to the minerals. The deeds were negotiated long ago before strip and auger mining were invented.

Perkins made his remarks in Breathitt County which is close to the heart of the stripping operations in Eastern Kentucky. Heretofore Perkins had been silent on the issue so his remarks were a definite break with the past.

Their significance is that Perkins, like a lot of other politicians in the mountains, including several Fiscal Courts, recognizes the mood of the people on the subject. More and more people in the area are beginning to recognize that strip mining provides few jobs, little return to the economy and a good deal of destruction to the area's environment.

It is evident that the next legislature is going to have to take a long, hard look at strip mining to determine what further curbs are going to have to be implemented in order to save the land.

BUSINESS HERE AND HEREABOUTS

BIG WORRY—Financiers, to a large extent, base their judgment of the economy on statistics, such as stock market graphs, the employment rate, construction starts, gross national product, dividend reports, etc. None of these has looked very promising lately. But now there's a bigger worry. It's the growing amount of commercial paper issued by corporations to obtain operating funds. And since the first of the year the amount of commercial paper has increased by $14 billion and now totals just under $40 billion. Seems that when the Federal Reserve System upped interest rates and then reduced the amount of money available for loans, all in the name of fighting inflation, the big companies in order to obtain operating funds, commenced issuing more commercial paper, which are short-term notes of 60, 90, and 120 days, with which they borrowed money from insurance companies and mutual investment trusts. By increasing their commercial paper, big companies circumvented the Federal Reserve's tight money policy in order to obtain operating money. But it has developed there is no control over this type of financing, and now that it has become known these IOUs have increased by $14 billion in six months, the Federal Reserve is getting worried. For instance, the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad had issued $89 million such IOUs, and without any collateral. Financial editor of the Christian Science Monitor said last week, "There is a feeling the boom may be ready to bust. Informed sources say the Federal Reserve is highly concerned about $5 billion in commercial paper now outstanding. Only time will tell whether the issuers will survive the spreading effects of the Penn Central collapse."

SHORTAGE OF COAL—Coal is in such short supply this fall that consumers are becoming worried where they will find their needed supplies. Because of the shortage, coal prices have risen from $6 and $6.50 a ton to $12.50 and more per ton. And many sources just don't have coal available for sale. Much of the production from small mines is now being trucked to rail centers for shipment to electric generating plants. New strip-mining operations likewise are selling their production mostly to big consumers, we are told.

COST OF LIVING UP—The Labor Department's June report on living costs showed prices up four-tenths of one percent, a slight easing from previous months, but still almost as high as 1969's peak 20-year high of 6.1 percent a year. Before last February the increase had been at a rate of six tenths percent a month. "We are still a long way from the end of the worst inflation in 20 years," said AFL-CIO president George Meany. June's rise in living costs was largely due to higher cost for new houses, used cars, and most types of consumer services. Mortgage interest rates eased a little in June.

MEDICAID cost in Kentucky reached $51.7 million in the fiscal year ended June 30, a small increase from $49.4 million in 1968-69. The Kentucky Advisory Council had expected Medicaid cost in the state was $56.1 million in the 1967-68 fiscal year and $51.1 million in fiscal year 1968-69.

STATE INSURANCE DEPARTMENT has filed with Legislative Research Commission 112 new regulations to implement the insurance code adopted by the 1970 General Assembly. One regulation prohibits any company from increasing or decreasing its rates on personal insurance by more than 25 percent annually "unless the insurance commissioner for good cause" grants permission.

ASHLAND'S HENRY CLAY HOTEL will be converted into a 100-unit low-rent housing facility for the elderly. Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved a $97,300 construction loan to the Housing Authority of Ashland.

PRESERVING OLD LAND GRANTS—The Historical Society is copying the state Land Office's old land grant books and survey plats as the first step in saving the historical records for posterity. Assistant Secretary of State Mary R. Galvez said a committee of concerned citizens and government officials recommended the copies be made so that the slowly crumbling originals can be stored and retired from use. Some 454 books and thousands of survey plats are being copied. The documents date back to the 1770's and bear such names as Washington, Jefferson, Boone and other famous Americans.

SALES REPORT
In July 1970, the basic monthly premium paid by people enrolled for the medical insurance part of Medicare will go up from $4.00 to $5.30, reflecting the rising costs of medical care in the country.

The increase is necessary to keep the medical insurance program on a pay-as-you-go basis. The $4.00 basic premium rate has been in effect since April 1968. Actual costs of the program, however, have shown that the rate should have gone up to about $4.70 in July 1969. Because the premium wasn't changed then, the program has had to draw upon reserve funds.

About half of the increase starting in July is needed to finance the insurance program as it is working now. The rest of the increase will cover higher costs anticipated in the 1970-1971 premium period.

Even though the premium rate is going up, Medicare medical insurance is still a bargain for older people.

WIFE LEAVES HIM, MOREHEAD MAN COMMITS SUICIDE
(Morehead News)
Relatives of Robert Trent, 48, of 928 West First Street, Morehead, said today he took his life because of "family problems."
Trent, long time employee of Lee Clay Products Company, Clearfield, shot himself with a .38 caliber pistol while sitting in his back yard Friday evening. Doctors said it was "unusual" that death did not come immediately. Neighbors said they heard the shot, and that Trent was still conscious and able to move himself from the ground into a lawn chair.
He was rushed to the University of Kentucky Medical Center at Lexington and died at 2:57 Sunday morning, or 40 hours after the bullet passed through his brain.
Relatives said that Trent had been despondent since "his wife left him . . . and he had been served this week notice of a divorce proceedings."
The tragedy had another, perhaps mysterious angle. At 4:30 Friday morning, the Morehead Fire Department was summoned to the Trent residence at the intersection of First Street and Clearfield Road.
They extinguished a blaze. Fire Chief Joe Mauk said that investigation showed that gasoline had been poured around the house and set afire. Trent claimed that somebody had tried to burn down the home, according to the arson report of the fire department.
Mr. Trent was born in Rowan County March 3, 1922, son of Harrison and Gladys (Howard) Trent, both of whom survive. He resided here all his life.
Funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning at Clearfield Tabernacle by Reverends L. E. Collier, David Kidd and Clifford Price. Interment was in Clearfield cemetery.
Mr. Trent, well known in Morehead and Clearfield, was a veteran of World War II.
Besides his parents, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Wanda Pennington, Morehead; four brothers, Omer Trent, Morehead; Harrison Trent, Jr., Wayne, Mich., and Wales Trent and Cecil Trent, both of Clearfield; and four sisters: Mrs. Gertrude Trent, Clearfield, Mrs. Shirley Fay Kegley, New Carlisle, O., and Mrs. Elizabeth Holloway and Mrs. Thelma Jean Stewart, both of Morehead.
Another immediate survivor is a stepson, Ed McDaniel, Ann Arbor, Mich.

MEDICARE COST RISES IN JULY

Letter to the Editor—
COOPER SAVES BURLEY PROGRAM
July 10, 1970

Wednesday, as the Senate neared final vote on the Fiscal Year 1971 Appropriations Bill for the Department of Agriculture, Senator Frank Moss of Utah offered an amendment to the bill which would have destroyed the tobacco program. The amendment prohibited funds for tobacco price support, grading and inspection, promotion of tobacco exports and sale of tobacco under Public Law 40 (sale for local currency to foreign countries).

I was very glad we were able to defeat this surprise amendment by a vote of 52 to 15. I noted in my speech on the Senate floor that the amendment would be "unfair to thousands of tobacco growers and would destroy the economy of tobacco growing states."

JOE CREASON, COURIER-JOURNAL'S MR. KY., TO SPEAK HERE AUGUST 8

Former Morgan County students will be entertained by Joe Creason, popular Courier-Journal columnist, at this year's School Homecoming Banquet on Saturday evening, Aug. 8 at 7 o'clock.

James R. Perry, homecoming chairman, said this week Mr. Creason has accepted his invitation to address Morgan homecomers.

To thousands of persons within the newspaper's circulation area, columnist Joe Creason is "Mr. Courier-Journal."

And with good reason since he is perhaps the best known and liked member of the paper's staff.

Before starting his daily "Joe Creason's Kentucky" column in 1963, he spent 20 years as a feature writer for the Sunday Magazine, and this work brought him into intimate contact with people all over the state.

Since the end of World War II, Creason has traveled more than 500,000 miles through Kentucky alone, and has been on assignment in each of the state's 120 counties at least one time each year. Thus he knows as much about Kentucky and its people and history as any person in the state.

Creason came to the paper in 1941 after having graduated from the University of Kentucky the year before and having worked on other papers. At UK he was sports editor of both the student newspaper and yearbook for three years; was president of his fraternity, Alpha Tau Omega, and was voted the most popular man on the campus.

After service as a Navy officer during World War II, he was assigned to the Sunday Magazine. He supervised writing of "The Civil War in Kentucky" in 1960, the first newspaper supplement to win the National Civil War Centennial Commission Award of Distinction. In 1967, he shared in the Pulitzer Prize The Courier Journal won for public service. In addition to his travel for the paper, Creason is in wide demand as an after-dinner speaker. Each year he delivers 100 or more speeches before groups throughout the southeastern United States.

A native of Benton, Ky., he is married and has two sons. Creason's list of outside activities is too numerous to outline in full, but includes: Twice president of the Kentucky Tennis Patrons Foundation, president of the UK Alumni Association, and a director of the Red Shield Boys Clubs, Downtown YMCA, Kentucky Historical Council and Kentucky Travel Society. He also is past chairman of the board of deacons of Second Presbyterian Church, Louisville.

BASE FOR DAM—Excavation work is being done on the base for the Cave Run dam which will stretch across Licking River between Bath and Rowan Counties near Salt Lick. The dam will create a summer reservoir backing water nearly to West Liberty and covering 3,270 acres at an elevation of 730 feet. The dam is to be of earth and random rock fill-type construction and will be 3,000 feet long and 100 feet high above ground elevation. The dam will have a center structure 50 feet wide that will carry a roadway at top and will slope gradually to ground elevation covering a width of 700 feet at the base. Structure at left is the dam's control tower.

Cave Run Proj. 17% Completed; Dam Now A-Building Near Salt Lick

Dam Will Be 3,000 Ft. Long, 100 Ft. High And 700 Feet Wide
BY BILL POWELL

SALT LICK, Ky. — Licking River, for about 20 miles upstream from a point near here, will become a lake instead of a river that at times grew wild, rolled swiftly and lashed harmfully at the land. The impoundment will form behind a massive dirt dam being built about five miles from here and not far from the university town of Morehead.

The lake design, from high enough in the air, will look something like those children used to form by dropping ink on a piece of paper and folding it. It will have immense shoreline for its length, as the impoundment rises out of loops and twist and turns of Licking River and into its tributaries.

Cave Run Dam, which is to bring all this about, is only 17 per cent complete but already the imprint of it is strong on the land here at the edge of the Kentucky foothills. The foundation, much of it in faulty shale that has to be grouted into a solid mass, is well underway on the south or Bath County side of the river.

In grouting, workmen simply bore holes into the shale at designated intervals. When drilling-water is lost (meaning faults have been encountered) concrete is forced into the holes until the shale reachable from them is solidified.

ABOUT 3,000 FEET

The dam will reach about 3,000 feet from hill to hill across the Licking River Valley, connecting Bath and Rowan counties. The reservoir will serve those counties and also Morgan and Menifee.

The dirt - and - random - fill dam itself will be 50 feet wide at the bottom part of the "core" but earth sloping out from each side of the structure will cover about 700 feet.

The dam, from the foundation, will be 140 feet high; it will rise 100 feet above the old terrain.

The dam will be 30 feet wide at the top and will be crossed by a roadway, built by the Corps of Engineers, to connect old Ky. 826 and Ky. 801. Cave Run Lake at minimum pool at elevation 720, will have a surface area of 6,790 acres.

The summer pool will spread the surface area, at elevation 730, to 8,270 acres. This stage will be maintained from April through September.

If filled to flood-control storage capacity, the lake would cover 14,870 acres.

SPILLWAY

If the impoundment ever ran above capacity a 650-foot-wide spillway on the Bath County side would take over. The spillway runs 600 feet off to the south of the dam and would guarantee that water would not run over the top of the dam and destroy it.

The spillway is not expected to be used.

"It would take a mighty flood for it to be needed," said P. D. Carlson, resident engineer on the project for the Corps of Engineers.

Cost of the project, whose reservoir will lie mainly in Daniel Boone National Forest, was fixed by the Corps of Engineers in 1968 at $31,900,000. This includes cost of property, relocation of roads and other off-site expenses. The contract of the Guy H. James Construction Co., which is building the earth dam itself, is for $4.7 million.

The dam will require about 3.3 million cubic yards of earth and other materials, including the rip-rap that will be placed on the upstream side.

'BORROW' AREA

The main "borrow" area will be behind the dam and will be about a mile long and a half-mile wide. Other "borrow" areas on what will be the shore of the lake will be used, too. They will be "dressed up" in the wake of the construction, said Carlson, who has been on the Cave Run project for three years.

The reservoir will reach to the North Fork of Licking River. On the side the foundation is being completed for the part of the dam lying on the south side of the river. This will be done this season, unless weather interferes, while work is going on on the south side of the dam itself.

Carlson said the dam is expected to be completed this summer to a height of 20 feet above the original terrain on the south side.

TEMPERATURE CONTROL

The river will be diverted permanently through the conduit for purpose of water control. The outlet works has two gated sluices and a low-flow bypass discharge system arranged so that downstream water temperature can be controlled to preserve downstream fishery conditions.

Also completed, is relocation of two miles of Ky. 801 and five miles of Ky. 1274. The Ky. 1274 relocation is about 10 miles upstream and lies about equally in Rowan and Menifee counties. A feature of the relocation is a 500-foot bridge built across Licking River's impoundment area.

Underway is relocation of eight miles of Ky. 801, which will connect with Ky. 1274 along the shoreline of the lake.

Also under contract is channel improvement of Triplett Creek in Morehead. This project isn't connected with the Cave Run job, however, although it is a Corps of Engineers undertaking.

BIDS TO OPEN

On July 23, bids will be opened on relocation of 10 more miles of Ky. 1274 in Menifee County. In about six months bids are expected to be taken on relocation of Ky. 519 in the area of the North Fork of Licking River.

On the side the foundation is being completed for the part of the dam lying on the south side of the river. This will be done this season, unless weather interferes, while work is going on on the south side of the dam itself.

Carlson said the dam is expected to be completed this summer to a height of 20 feet above the original terrain on the south side.

The river will be diverted through the completed structures in June of 1971 and construction then will be emphasized on the north side, now separated from the construction by the river.

The James Company was given a total of 1,520 days to finish the job. Rain has hampered the project some — workmen lost part of a day last week as a heavy rainstorm hit the Morehead area — but Carlson said the project "is substantially on schedule."

About 45 workmen are employed on the job by James; the Corps of Engineers has a 10-man staff here.

Said the Corps of Engineers concerning the purpose of the project:

"The reservoir will operate as a unit of the comprehensive reservoir plan for the Ohio River to effect reduction of flood stages at all points downstream from it. The reservoir will operate to augment ment natural low-flow conditions on the lower Licking River for purposes of water-quality control and pollution abatement."

IN NATIONAL FOREST

Uprooting of people in the reservoir area has been held down by the fact that the project lies extensively in the national forest. But relocation will affect portions of three state highways and utilities and cemeteries.

The project is under the jurisdiction of the Louisville District, Corps of Engineers.

Carlson retired from the Army Corps of Engineers after 20 years of service. He enlisted in the Army in 1940 and was discharged in 1945. He re-entered service in a short time his final tour of duty was at Fort Campbell. Carlson worked on the Alcan Highway and in the European Theater of Operations during World War II.

A short time after discharge as a colonel, Carlson became a civilian engineer for the Corps of Engineers, and was assigned to the Cave Run project.

RECREATIONAL AREA

The Corps of Engineers usually provides recreational areas for its reservoirs, but for Cave Run this will be provided by the U. S. Forestry Service.

Facilities will include boating ramps, picnic areas, beaches and other features which are expected to add substantially to the area's tourist lure.

A job that will be handled by the engineers when the time comes perhaps in 1972 will be letting of a contract for clearing vegetation from the reservoir floor.

Fort Knox, established in 1913, was named in honor of Henry T. Knox, Revolutionary War general and first secretary of War. It contains 106,000 acres and the U.S. gold repository, a fortified vault housing most of the U.S. gold reserve.

SAME QUARTER-BLOCK AREA BURNED IN 1932 WITH A LOSS OF $25,000

Courier of Dec. 8 1932 Tells Details Of December Blaze

The same quarter-block area of West Liberty's Main street that was ravished by fire last week was wiped out by fire on December 4, 1932.

Consumed in the 1932 blaze were the two-story W. D. Womack residence, the post office, and the large general store of Blair, Bellamy and Caskey. They stood where the Rex Theatre, the C. C. Elam building and the Elam Utility Co. building stood that were destroyed by fire Tuesday of last week.

Estimated loss in last week's fire is approximately $200,000. Loss of buildings and businesses on the same site back in 1932 was estimated at $25,000.

An account of the 1932 fire is taken from The Courier's front page of Thursday, Dec. 8, 1932, and is as follows—

SERIOUS FIRE LOSS

West Liberty suffered a fire loss of approximately $25,000 within about one hour's time on Sunday morning, Dec. 4, 1932. Three buildings and much of the contents were completely consumed and four or five other buildings more or less seriously damaged.

Fire originated in the W. D. Womack residence. The building was located on Main Street and was rented to Stanley Ryan who conducted a general clothing store and to Mr. and Mrs. John Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Mart Elam had also lived in the house up to a few weeks ago and had some goods in the house. The residence was built in 1872 and was an old landmark. The building itself is said to have been partly covered by insurance. But there is said to have been no insurance on any of its contents.

The postoffice building, owned by Luther Blair, was only about twenty-five feet distant from the Womack residence and was on fire before the impromptu bucket brigade got into action. Nearly all postoffice equipment and mail was saved. The building is said to carry no insurance.

The postoffice building was directly against the large general store building of Blair, Bellamy and Caskey. The second floor of this building contained living rooms occupied by W. H. Childers and family and also the studio of photographer Claude Wells. Mr. Childers saved most of his household goods. Claude Wells saved his camera but lost his office equipment, chemicals and light bulbs, also his complete outfit of carpenter tools.

The large stock of merchandise of Blair, Bellamy and Caskey mostly went up in smoke. Some of the merchandise was saved and is being held in the basement of the Methodist Church awaiting an insurance adjustment. The big iron safe in this building weighing over a ton was thrown out of a window near which it stood by a bunch of excited supermen.

The building of the Morgan Motor Company, and the residence of W. H. Manker (now the Justice Hall apartment building), W. W. McGuire (stood where the Collins Ashland service station now is located), Luther Blair, Lula Belle Elam and F. S. Brong (last two stood across Main street) were all more or less seriously damaged. The law office of McGuire and McGuire was on fire almost continually for a half hour or more, but the bucket brigade which by this time functioned to perfection just would not give up and the building stands today a monument of heroism and devotion. Losses are estimated as follows—Womack building $2,500. Contents $2,000; Post-office building $1,000; contents $500; Blair, Bellamy and Caskey building $4,000, contents $12,000. Damage to adjoining property $1,000.

FLATWOODS

BY M. KEMPLIN
July 20 — H. C. Gose and little daughter, Charlotte Lynn of Middletown, O., were weekend guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lona Gose. They visited the writer and the Asa Kemplin family.

I was very pleased to meet Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morris from New Mexico. Mrs. Morris is the former Miss Anna Henry, daughter of Mrs. Mollie Henry Licking River and the late Mr. Henry.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl Faulkner did a wonderful help in the revival, they picked up and brought the folks to church then took them home.
